

ACCA 2015:

New opportunities, new approach?

Whilst we are all aware of the new ACCA exam sittings, the growing prevalence of objective test questions and the relaxation of the rules around the order in which you take your Professional papers may require a new approach for people studying ACCA.

Date	Location	Price
15 th July 2015 - 18:30	Radisson Blu Hotel Birmingham B1 1BT	Price: GBP 0.00

Content

The session will cover:

- The growing prevalence of objective test questions in ACCA exams
 - How to study and revise for them
 - Motivational techniques needed for mastering to become your preferred learning style
- Sequencing your F papers into P papers
 - Natural combinations to maximise assumed knowledge

Who will benefit

Anybody studying ACCA irrespective of whatever level you are at.

Even people studying the Professional papers can benefit from understanding natural combinations to maximise built up assumed knowledge.

Venue

Radisson Blu Hotel, 12 Holloway Circus, Queensway, Birmingham B1 1BT

6.30pm for 7pm

No charge.

To book please email james.taylor@htftpartnership.co.uk

If you cannot join us in person on 15th July, we are pleased to offer a live online option. Please email James on the above address to ask for joining instructions.

Speaker Details

Vicky Taylor, HTFT Partnership, is a qualified accountant who is a past winner of the prestigious PQ magazine Tutor of the Year award. She is a qualified NLP Practitioner, which gives her a great insight into how the mind works.